As intimated on the two Sundays previous to today there will be a congregational meeting after the service this morning to enable those eligible to vote for or against the proposed Union. This will be a secret ballot conducted by representatives of Fife Presbytery. There will be separate tables for each of the Cairneyhill and Limekilns congregations. Only persons who are communicant members or adherents of either church will be eligible to vote and can only do so in person at the ballot today. A ballot is also being held for Culross and Torryburn church. The results of the ballots will be made known as soon as possible. If approved by all three congregations and confirmed by Presbytery the union will take effect from 1st January 2027.
